

Laconia Historical salutes French-Canadian culture in the city

The Laconia Historical and Museum Society is celebrating the 400th anniversary of Quebec and French-Canadian culture in Laconia with its summer exhibition entitled "Je t'aime Laconia". This story-based exhibit features personal recollections from area residents as well as family memorabilia from the community and the museum's collection. Some of the local family names included in the exhibit are Paquette, Boutin, St. Onge, Bolduc, Normandin, Drouin, Nadeau, Morin, Binette, Samson, and St. Louis. "Je t'aime Laconia" is free and open to the public at the Laconia Public Library from May 21st to November 1, 2008. An opening reception will be held on the evening of Wednesday May 21st from 6:00 to 7:30 pm.
